CHANGES SUGGESTED.

What Insurance Men Think Maysville Authorities Should Do.

In January last Colonel Johnson, former Chief Engineer of the Philadelphia Fire Department, and Inspector for the National Board of Underwriters, came to Maysville and made a thorough inspection of the fire apparatus of the city; and these are the recommendations made by him—

First—The Mayor of the city should be empowered to appoint a competent fireman, to act as a chief officer in full command of the Fire Department, and to receive suitable recompense for his services.

Two—The present force of volunteer firemen should be dispensed with, and the service reorganized by the appointment of ten call men at each of the present stations, to receive partial pay for service performed while on duty.

Three—One permanently employed driver and horse should be placed at each of the Washington and Neptune Fire Companies' stations, to quickly convey the apparatus to fires.

Four—An improved electric fire-alarm system should be introduced, with at least ten fire-alarm street boxes and alarm-gong indicators at each station, the system to be connected to the alarm bell at the Washington Fire Company station, with automatic striking appliances.

Five—Longer length ladders should be obtained and carried on the truck located at the Washington Company fire station, or a modern built truck and ladders obtained for service in the business section, to enable the firemen to operate on upper floors of the highest buildings.
